During the course of the evening a large silver offering was received which will go to help the class in their "service for others."

Of immediate beauty, by one of two applications of some wonderful cosmetic.

Just the "get-rich-quick" idea applied to woman's desire for beauty.

Same results—grief.

Steady beauty service based on research of 18 years is Marjorie's slower fashion. But so honest and satisfactory.

GLENDALE FILM FOLK HAVE LENTEN EVENING

Mr. and Mrs. George Hollister entertained in a novel way Friday evening at their home, 1120 Melrose avenue, showing on the screen a wonderful picture taken by the Kalem company over ten years ago in Jerusalem, entitled "From the Manger to the Cross," in which Olive Hollister portrayed the character of Mary Magdalene and which was photographed by George Hollister, cameraman.

George Hollister, Jr., then four years old, was the Christ child. All the scenes were taken as nearly as possible on the spot where they happened centuries before, and were titled from the Scriptures. The Mount of Olives, the Garden of Gethsemane, Christ walking on the sea of Galilee, the tomb of Lazarus and all the stations of the cross, ending with the crucifixion, held the guests spellbound with their beauty.

At the conclusion of a most enjoyable evening, supper was served.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Plazi, manager of the new Orpheum Hillstreet theatre, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Horne, director at the face studios, Mr. and Mrs. S. Woodhouse of Hollywood, Mrs. William P. Wallace, better known as George Woodthorpe, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Dobson and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. George Hollister, and their children, Doris and George, Jr.

MISS BROWN IS GUEST OF Honor of Girls She Trained

About twenty representatives of the Women's Evening Gymnasium Class assembled at the girls' gym on the high school grounds Friday evening for a little party at which Miss Brown, the first class teacher, was the guest of honor. She greatly endeared herself to class members by her faithful work and charming personality and when an attack of the flu made it necessary for her to relinquish the night work here and secure a transfer to an easier position in the Long Beach schools, there was general mourning.

The evening was devoted to games and a general good time. The party adjourned finally to the school cafeteria where refreshments of ice cream and cake were served, and where Miss Brown was surprised with the gift of a pretty hand satchel, in appreciation of her work for the class.

FATHERS' NIGHT AT COLORADO SCHOOL

"The fathers' night" party given Friday night by mothers of children in the Colorado street school, who are members of the P. T. A., was a great success from every viewpoint. About 125 were present and the program, which was in charge of a committee composed of two mothers from each grade, was much enjoyed.

It opened with songs by children of the first grade, and included demonstrations of magic lanterns and a moving picture machine, the purchase of which is being considered by the association, followed by a talk by a Near East relief worker, songs by Harry Girard, a dance by six little girls of the third grade, and a short talk by City Manager Reeves on the sewer problem, the proposed bus line and other civic matters of interest. He preceded his talk with recitations for the entertainment of the children—"Little Boy Blue," by Eugene Fields, and "The Cuckoo," by Eugene Fields. There was a short business session, then refreshments, deviled eggs, cake and coffee.

BARBECUED RABBIT

After skinning and cleaning, place the rabbit in a covered baking pan, with a sauce made of vinegar, butter, pepper and salt. Bake frequently with the sauce and let bake until tender. Serve with the sauce.

BRUNSWICK STEW

Take one chicken or two squab, cut up and cook slowly, with one-half gallon of water. Let stew until the bones can be removed. Add one-half dozen large tomatoes, sliced fine, or one can, one pint of butter beans, corn cut from one-half dozen ears, or one can add four good sized tomatoes, sliced. Season with butter, pepper and salt and cook until thick enough to be eaten with a fork.

TO PICKLE BEEF

Before putting the beef into the pickle soak in cold water one hour; take out, sprinkle with salt and let drain one hour. Rub each piece of beef with the following mixture: one teaspoon of pulverized saltpeper, one tablespoon of brown sugar, two handfuls of fine salt. Mix all together well and use this quantity to every ten pounds of beef. After rubbing each piece, pack in a barrel, cask or tub, and pour over it the following pickle: Make a brine of salt and water, strong enough to float an egg. To every six gallons add one pint of molasses, two pounds of brown sugar and four ounces of saltpeper. Skim well before putting over the meat, which must be well covered by the brine and kept in a dry place. A weight should always be kept on the meat, so as to prevent its rising. Should any scum rise it must be carefully removed. Should the brine become cloudy, pour off and boil, adding salt. Let it be perfectly cold before pouring over the meat. This brine will keep from December to spring.

It is better to lend a hand than to give advice.

NEW YORK, April 8.—In a dry country it sounds absurd to figure booze as a factor in the major league pennant race. Despite Mr. Volstead and the law, there is enough hooch around, however, to trouble the managers of practically every club on the big time.

The pennant chances of four of the strongest teams in the majors depend in a large part this season on how the players conduct themselves off the field.

Branch Rickey, who has lost two "thirsty" players already, is frank enough to admit that the entire chances of the St. Louis Cardinals rest on the drinking factor.

John Barleycorn is the most dangerous factor the Cardinals have as a pennant contender in the National league race," Rickey said recently.

The Giants will be up against the same thing, perhaps in a less degree, and the Pirates, who threw away the pennant in 1921 with wild ways, will have to reform this year or get the same result.

One of McGraw's best pitchers, who starred in the world's series, had to have one of the coaches for a constant guardian all last season and at that he got away several times.

One of the biggest stars in baseball last fall "threw down" his club in the hottest part of a desperate pennant race. He tried to open a quart of Scotch by pounding the bottom of the bottle on the wall. The bottle cracked and he nearly cut the palm out of his hand. He was in and out for the rest of the season and was of little value to his team.

One of the greatest left-handers in the game almost passed out of the big leagues in one season because he couldn't get away from booze. His team depended on him for another pennant and he flopped. This season he seems to have settled.

The Cleveland Indians and the Ming into their envelope.

Spurns Big Interests for Teacher's Job

Just to gratify a "boyhood ambition," Roswell B. Miller, who married Margaret Carnegie, daughter of Andrew Carnegie, has sprung an offer to join the Bethlehem Steel company and the banking house of J. P. Morgan, and will become an instructor in engineering at New York University. His salary will be slightly more than $2000 per year. Miller resides in a mansion valued at $250,000. He served as an ensign in the navy during the war.

CIRCUS GROWD PACKS TENT

About Twenty-five Hun- dred Attend Perform- ance on Valley Road

Glendale was certainly circus hungry, judging from the outpouring to the big Howe circus and animal show at Park Avenue and San Fernando Road last evening. Every seat in the big tent was taken and many were standing. The opening concert by the superb band the company carries occupied 20 minutes and was very fine. Those who did not appreciate the music were highly diverted by the actions of the tall and stately vamps who were constantly looking for her affinity, whom, when she found, which was very often, she ardently embraced and kissed despite his struggles, thereby causing much embarrassment to many a steady-going householder accompanied by his wife, and not a few young fellows accompanied by their sweeties.

There were nearly a dozen clowns, who greatly delighted the children, old and young. The trained animal acts in which dogs, horses, goats, camels, the big elephant, tigers and leopards showed their intelligence and in the case of the wild animals, their subservience to the will of their steel-nerved trainers, were decidedly interesting. Rope walking by goats and dogs and the superb acting of the dissipated bear were the two most notable acts, in the estimation of many. There was some beautiful dancing and posturing and some fancy horseback riding, as well as several acts by ponies and mules. And we must not forget the really remarkable circus riding by a beautiful collic and a trained lion. It was a really meritorious performance from every point of view and deserved the large patronage accorded it. The management was most courteous and was especially kind to the Glendale Daily Press carriers and their understudies, admitting 61 of these from Glendale, Burbank and Eagle Rock, not even allowing them to pay the war tax, insisting on taking care of this item. For this the Glendale Press and the newsboys return their hearty thanks. The boys thus given some handsome treat were Norman Finley, Ernest Ogilvie, Ted Dornance, Bert Ball, Geo. Anderson, Charlie, Harry and Walter Smith, Randall and Douglas Bacon, Donald Dewey, Hiram Quackenbush, Henry Hesse, Carlyle Whaley, Homer Lockwood, Lawrence Wolfman, Bryant Small, Howard Scott, Elmer Clark, Bill Watson, Ernest Reed, Robert Hansen, James Pike, Charles Tunnell, Fred McCormick, Harold Begg, Clifford Harmon, John and Don Elliott, Philip and Wm. Goss, Ray and Edward Loeffler, Bill and Jesse Phillips, Ronald and Wayne Harris, Charles Thompson, Billy Halstead, Ralph Gilman, Franklin Alvord, Howard Retberg, Francis Wilkinson, Billy Pheon, Randolph White, Pete Keogh, Laurence and Harland May, Austin Teasley, Dale Robinson, Ed Finney, Harold Begg, Lowell Parker, Wilber Read, Tolliver and Bill McClammy, and Eugene Clark.

ORANGE CAKE

One and two-thirds cups flour, 1-1/2 level teaspoons baking powder, 1 cup sugar, 1-1/2 cup of butter, 2 eggs, well beaten, 1-1/2 cup of milk. Icing: Three tablespoons orange juice and a little grated peel. One tablespoon lemon juice. Thickened with confectioner's sugar. Mix the ingredients in the order given, and beat two minutes; the butter must be soft to combine readily; known as a quick cake.

PLAIN FROSTING

Milk, 1-3 pound pulverized sugar, lemon or vanilla. Moist sugar with enough sweet milk to make required consistency to spread easily. Care must be taken not to get too thin.

Cincinnati Reds have had their booze troubles. Every pennant winner has it more than the other clubs because the world's series money enables the players to pay $12 or $15 a quart without out-

MARY LA POINT IS ELECTED MAY QUEEN

Julia Steelman Made Maid of Honor at Cerritos Festival

The contest to determine the girl who will be queen of the festival to be given by the Cerritos avenue school May 5 is ended and Mary Jane La Point, for whom 12,092 votes were cast, will be Her Royal Highness, her Maid of Honor being Julia Steelman, for whom 10,631 votes were deposited.

In arranging for the contest, nine representatives of grades from the 6th to the 8th were chosen and for these the children balled at a penny a vote. The other candidates will be attendants on the queen and form a part of the charming group which will preside over the contests of the afternoon. Their names are: Gwendolen Merrill, Margery Gilhuly, Eleanor Carpenter, Thelma Rucker, Lolita Parker, Margery Prialux and Florence McCoubrey.

The returns from the May Queen vote amounted to $151.08 and brought the festival fund to a total of $239.36, to be used for expenses in putting it on.

The afternoon's program will include the queen's pageant and in her honor will be given the floral parade of toy autos and bicycles, a kite tournament, races and games. Between the afternoon and evening performances a dinner will be served, followed by stereopticon and moving picture shows. A carnival setting will be provided by flower decked booths, where all kinds of refreshments will be sold, and useful articles as well. Prizes will be offered to encourage entrance into the various contests.

Glendale Press, and also announced three special prizes, viz., a six months' course in vocal work by Mrs. Catherine Shank, a six months' course of piano instruction offered by Mrs. Pearl Curran and a similar course at the Flute school, of which William E. Hullinger, one of the artists of the evening, is the head. A special committee will be appointed, she said, to determine upon whom these prizes shall be bestowed, i. e., the music pupils whose talents justify special encouragement.

The program of the evening was then given by Mrs. Catherine Shank, vice president of the club, and assisting artists, William E. Hullinger, flutist, and Mrs. Henion Robinson, pianiste.

Mrs. Shank is a favorite with Glendale audiences and her work covered a wide range calculated to display her powers to advantage. Her notes were pure and true, her tone shading fine, her interpretations artistic, in spite of a long and taxing program she graciously responded to enthusiastic applause with three encore numbers, one a charming little Irish song, another "At Dawling." It would be hard to determine which program number pleased the audience most, but the Handel number "Vien o Figlio" was very beautiful and satisfying.

Mrs. Robinson was wonderful as an accompanist and Mr. Hullinger delighted the audience, not only by his obligations, which were a revelation of the beauty to be attained by an accomplishment of that nature, but also in his solo selections, especially in the charming "Andalouse" (Bassard), substituted for one of his program numbers. The blending of flute and voice was exquisite and some in the audience were heard to remark they could have remained all night and listened to more of the same thing. The club has reason to congratulate itself on such a concert presented by one of its officials.

This Is the Time to Put the Car in Shape

"Now is the time to put the automobile in condition for the trip to the hills on the opening day of trout season. May 1 will soon be here and there are hundreds of anglers in this section who are planning to go in search of the elusive finny creatures on the big opening day.

"If there is anything wrong with the automobile the motorist will do well to have it overhauled before the trip to the hills is undertaken. At the best the mountain jaunt is a severe test for the car and if the old bus is not in good repair you may not land home in schedule time.

"If the car is put in the shop now," continued the proprietor of the Reliable garage, 310 East Colorado, "there will be plenty of time to limber it up before the opening day of the season. We are prepared to take care of 'hurry up' orders in the most efficient manner possible, and we guarantee all our work."

PEAK BUSINESS SAYS S. & G. AUTO SERVICE

Any More Would Cause
Painful Delight, Mr.
Gaardner, Manager

"If business was better it would hurt," said Mr. Gaardner of the S. & G. Auto Service, 612 East Broadway, this morning. "We are doing a good business and for this there is a reason. The excellent workmanship we have been giving the motorists of this city for the past few months has resulted in our business growing to remarkable proportions. Our aim is to give the people of Glendale an increasingly better service."

This firm is composed of H. A. Gaardner and R. D. Stinson. Mr. Gaardner has been a resident of Glendale for the past 14 years, during which time he has done automobile repair work exclusively. Mr. Stinson has followed the automobile game for the past 17 years. He formerly was with the Hupmobile factory for eight years during which time he acquired a knowledge of this make of car second to none. He was with the Packard automobile factory for six years and has acted as sales manager for both the Scripps Booth and Hupmobile automobiles. These automobile mechanics de luxe are equipped to handle all automobile engine trouble. They have undoubted faith in Glendale and believe there will be better business as the months and years wear away. Immediate attention to motors in preparation for the summer motoring season is advocated by these expert mechanics.

DORT STOCK CAR SHOWS ITS PEP AND SAVING

The economy mark between Los Angeles and Bakersfield was lowered this week by a stock Dort touring car under observation of oil and newspaper men, when this car set an average of 38.76 miles per gallon for the trip.

This is indeed wonderful mileage when one realizes that it is necessary to climb over two grades, reaching an altitude in excess of 4000 feet, and is a fair test of what a car can do under all conditions, as found in Southern California.

The Dort that made this record is the same car that set a speed mark of 67.92 miles per hour on a Venice street recently, and the only changes from the way the car stood at the completion of the speed test were the replacing of the top and hot-air intake and the adjustment of the carburetor. The gasoline tank was filled to the top and sealed before leaving Los Angeles, and when the seal was broken at Bakersfield and the tank refilled it took but three gallons and one quart to do the trick. The distance noted was 126 miles, the average, as figured by the owners, being 38.76 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

This was the largest week, according to E. E. Sawyer of the Sunset Motor company, 308 East Colorado, that this company has had since locating here. During the week three Dort cars were delivered to their new Glendale owners, who have already expressed entire satisfaction with this wonderful car. These sales include a roadster, which was sold Tuesday, a coupe, sold on Thursday, and a touring car, sold on Friday.

Mr. Sawyer states that owing to the approach of summer and the balmy days, which naturally makes a person think of the sea-

AUTO TOP WORK IS ART IN DESIGN

So Declares De Luxe Company of South Maryland Avenue

Declared to be a development of the present automotive age seldom appreciated to the extent it really deserves, is the increasing demand for efficient workmanship in automotive mechanics other than that immediately concerned with the power plant of a car.

"Whenever the need for a new top on his car arose, the motorist was wont to call the assistance of the same garage man who drained his time between exploring the greasy insides of one automobile with the monkey wrench and applying gas and oil with the other," said one of the proprietors of the De Luxe Auto Top company of South Maryland Avenue.

"But now the specialized workmen attend to the building of the automobile top and leave the fuel dispensing to the other fellows. And the establishment whose services are particularly those of automobile top building and adding new equipment requires just as much specialization, skillful workmanship and facilities. Motorists are beginning to realize this. Evidence of this fact is shown in the appreciation shown by car owners for the specialized service that we are able to give at prices that otherwise would be taken to represent work of a much lower character."

shore and the mountains, the demand for automobiles is gradually becoming greater. The Dort is a wonderful outing car. It is absolutely dependable, an excellent "hill climber" and always gets back home.

The members of this firm have been repairing Fords for many years and they know every trick of the trade. This is saying a great deal, but we can live strictly up to the mark when it comes to putting Old Henry in the very finest possible shape. It's not only the tires, springs and axles that take punishment when your car hammers over the rough going. Think of the battery hidden away underneath. Willard Batteries are able to stand up and serve faithfully under severe driving conditions, because they are conscientiously built, under the guidance of a pioneer in the industry.

The name Willard has always been coupled with high standards and with unceasing progress and improvement.

The automobile storage battery was largely a Willard development. After it had been perfected to a degree that more than satisfied the automotive industry, Willard revolutionized battery-making by introducing Threaded Rubber Insulation, which lasts the life of the battery plates, and puts an end to expense for re-insulation. Because of this Willard invention every Willard Threaded Rubber Insulator is uniform in its ability to stand long immersion in battery solution, the continued passage of electric current, and the endless jar and vibration of the parts that support it.

Such uniformity is the natural result of Willard's combination of threads with rubber, the universal insulator. Every square inch of every Insulator is uniformly porous, so that no part may be over-worked and worn out before its time.

Not only does the name Willard mean a high standard of battery construction but it means also a high standard of battery service. The Battery Station representing Willard takes efficient care of all makes of batteries and treats all car owners alike.

If you would buy certainty of satisfaction, do these three things: (1) Insist on having your battery serviced only at the Battery Station representing Willard; (2) Have all recharging, repairing and other work done according to Willard Standards of Service; and (3) When the time comes for a new battery—the kind that is standard equipment on 191 makes of cars and trucks, whose builders pay an additional price to give you, the car owner, uninterrupted service at lowest cost—measured in months or in miles.

FOUR AGES OF BAT WORTHY MAN'S CLOSE STUDY

Mr. Cizek of Cizek Auto Electric Co. Tells of Spark Cutter

"As stated in a former article by this firm, there are four periods in the life of a storage battery. The first, 'infancy,' we described in the first story. The second is 'vigorous maturity.' From infancy the battery enters upon the second period of its life—its vigorous maturity. It is in the pink of condition—three months of good care have filled it to the bursting point with energy. It has now settled down into its job and is ready for all the work that can be put up to it.

"Of course, this does not mean that it can be neglected without serious results. It has to be filled with water just as regularly as before—that is, every week in summer and every two weeks in winter.

"It should be tested every two weeks with a hydrometer syringe and ammeter readings should be taken frequently. Almost as important is the necessity of visiting the service station. This is more than a measure of precaution. Your battery may be overworking. It may be doing any one of a score of things which, while the injury they may do may not show up immediately, tend to shorten the battery's life and impair its later usefulness. These visits to the service stations, are in the nature of life insurance."

Mr. Cizek of the Cizek Auto Electric company, 300 South Brand boulevard, local agents for the Willard threaded rubber battery, gave the foregoing words of wisdom as to the care of the battery.

"And we believe the Willard threaded rubber battery is without doubt the most sturdy battery on the market today," continued Mr. Cizek. "We repair any make of battery and do the work right, because we know how."

BUYING AUTO IS NO PROBLEM SAYS SMITH

Chevrolet Agent Says Purchase is Matter of Personal Preference

"The act of buying an automobile is no longer a problem," said C. L. Smith, proprietor of the C. L. Smith Motor company, local agents for the Chevrolet automobile. "Living as we do in a country where there are all kinds of good roads and where even the mountain trails have been smoothed beautifully for the motorist, the purchase of an auto is more a question of personal taste than anything else."

"Of course, the motorist must select a car that has demonstrated that it will stand up and that will go where and when the driver wills. Such a car is the Chevrolet. The 'Chevy' is a genuine automobile—it is a car that combines all the good features of the other makes of car and embodies features such as are found only in cars costing much more than it is now selling for. The Chevrolet has all the comfort that the average person demands, and it is one of the easiest riding machines on the market today."

"Then, too, when it comes to making repairs the Chevrolet stands ace high, as they say. Its various working parts are extremely accessible. This is an extremely valuable feature. It cuts down the garage bills to a minimum. It is also a car of high gasoline mileage and low oil consumption, which makes it very acceptable to the average person. In other words, the Chevrolet is a real automobile, and one that will give the very best of service."

MARYLAND GARAGE WELCOMES PUBLIC, OPENING TONIGHT

Program of Radio Music and Dancing by Air Harmony Arranged

Everything is ready for the grand opening of the Maryland Storage Garage, between Broadway and Wilson on Maryland avenue, tonight, and the event promises to be the leading one of its kind ever held in Glendale.

The principal feature of this opening will be the radio concert which will start at 7:30 o'clock. The wireless receiving apparatus has been installed and is now in readiness to receive the grand opera that will be sent out by the sending station in Los Angeles. In this wireless concert the people of Glendale will be given a treat such as they have never experienced before.

Following the wireless concert the floor will be cleared and the orchestra will strike up a lively strain, to which those present will "trip a wicked toe." The dancing, as will the wireless concert, will be entirely free. In fact, everything that takes place will be free to those who attend.

The Maryland Storage garage is one of the finest equipped garages in Glendale. Everything is new. Everything in the way of auto repairing is done, including general repairing, washing and polishing, gasoline, oils, accessories—in fact, everything for the motorist may be had at this garage, at prices that will astonish the motorist.

OVERLAND BUYING IS SPRINGTIME SYMPTOM

Purchasing Now Means a Tuned up Car for Summer

"Now is the time to buy that automobile," says Geo. T. Smith, the Overland man. "The summer season, with its many delightful days for trips into the hills where real rest and contentment may be found, on down to one of the numerous beaches, is approaching. There is nothing that will bring back the health so rapidly as a jaunt away from home—away from the many things to which one has been accustomed, and away from familiar scenes. The pure ozone of California's wonderful hills is a sure cure for that tired feeling. Even the one-day picnic trip puts one in condition for the next week's work."

"And where can you get a car that is better fitted for that mountain trip than the Overland? It has the sturdy qualities necessary for hard mountain climbing, it has the 'pep' to climb the steepest hills and it has that quality of endurance that is needed to always come home on its own power."

"There is plenty of time for the motorist to thoroughly break in his car for the summer trips, providing he purchases his machine at once," continued Mr. Smith, 238 South Brand boulevard, local agent for the Overland and Willys-Knight cars. "He can secure his car on easy terms and can be enjoying it through the summer as he is buying it."

WONDER BUICK OF UTILITY OF BEAUTY N. Y. SHOW IS IN GLENDALE

New Model 22-Six-54 on Exhibition at Local Agency

The wonderful new model 22-six-54 Buick roadster, winner of first prize at the recent New York automobile show, has arrived in Glendale and is now on exhibition in the sales room of Tanner & Hall, 237 South Brand boulevard, agents for the Buick in Glendale.

This roadster is one of the "finest" creations in the way of an automobile that has ever been seen in Glendale. There is nothing freakish about it—it is just one of those classy cars that any motorist would be proud to own. It is truly a de luxe automobile, with tailored top, maroon body, black fenders, nickel trimmings, etc. It is fitted with every convenience known to the automobile industry at this time.

Also on display at the Tanner & Hall show rooms is a four-cylinder stock chassis, which shows in detail the mechanical advantages of the new Buick four, a car which, it is claimed, will hold up the Buick tradition for power, economy and service.

The public is invited to call at the Tanner & Hall agency and inspect either of these machines as long as the exhibitions last. Saturday and Monday evenings the store will be kept open for the benefit of those who cannot call during the day. The survey of these instruments will be augmented by a radio phone concert, which will be given throughout the days and evenings.

Everybody knows the Buick. It is "right there" when it comes to service and economy. It will go anywhere any other car will go, and, best of all, "it always comes back home on its own power."

Car Owners Stop at Nothing to Get Going

Proof that auto owners in Southern California will stop at nothing when it comes to touring is shown in news of the activity of the car forwarding department of the Automobile Club of Southern California just received.

Bitten by the touring bug which thrives in this section as nowhere else in America, motorists are shipping their cars this season to the four corners of the globe—and motorists from the four corners of the globe are shipping their cars here for touring purposes.

Groups of motorists at the present time are shipping cars from Southern California to Manila, France, England and Honolulu. Other shipments from the auto club are being made to Mexico, Rotterdam and Japan.

This club service, which is free to members and visitors in the south, is also bringing in large numbers of machines from New York and foreign lands. Private touring parties are also bringing in numerous cars from northern points, notably Seattle and Portland.

Motorists who desire to ship their machines to other countries are advised to get in touch with the nearest club office for information at this time in regard to carload lots of automobiles which are leaving within a few days, as cheaper rates in this way are available.

By this "clubbing together" method, motorists are able to save large sums of money. It is also increasing the general prosperity of the southern counties of the state. Shipments by sea as well as by land, of course, are very popular at this time.

SUN SHINES, WHY NOT YOUR CAR? ASKS HE

Glendale Wash Rack Proprietors Wait With Polishing Materials

"The rains are over and it is now time to have the car cleaned in preparation for the sunny spell. The chances are that the present sunny weather will last a long time, and there is no reason why the family car should be permitted to remain in an untidy condition any longer."

"Dirt and grease are the worst enemies to the enamel of any car. The longer these are permitted to remain on the car the more damage they do. For this reason the motorist should have his car thoroughly cleansed and keep it clean, otherwise the enamel cannot last."

So spake the manager of the Glendale Wash Rack, corner Brand boulevard and Wilson, this morning. This rack is now under new management. The boys who now hold forth there know the car washing and greasing game from the word "go," and they are furnishing a class of work that cannot help but please the motorists of Glendale.

AIM OF MAXWELL NEW CAR

"One of the most perplexing problems confronting the automobile manufacturer is that of a suitable combination of beauty in appearance with mechanical goodness," said Lyman P. Clark, manager of the Glendale Motor Car company, 246 South Brand boulevard, Maxwell dealers, "and this is especially true in the light car class."

"An unusually beautiful car, especially if it is one of medium price, is likely to create doubt concerning its mechanical accomplishments. And yet a car without beauty, even though it may deliver remarkably fine performance, can not long endure in the present market. The car buyers of today demand mechanical excellence together with stylish appearance and luxurious comfort. This fact allows the manufacturer a single policy—he must first establish the mechanical merit of his product and maintain it, then he must furnish a body design that will appeal strongly to the buyer. No other course can be successful."

SUMMER DAYS WILL SOON BE HERE SAYS JACK

Proprietor of Club Garage Years for Good Old Times

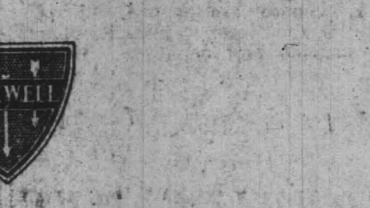

The coming summer season means a great deal to the motorists of Southern California, according to "Jack," proprietor of the Club Garage, 107 East Colorado. There has been so much cloudy and rainy weather this winter that the owner of the motor car is just waiting for the change to get out on the highway and for the warm, balmy days to come.

"These summer days will soon be here," said Jack, this morning. The winter weather has continued so long that some folks are beginning to think it will never end, but don't worry, the hot days will be here before a great while. When they do come the owner of the automobile will naturally think of the open road, the seashore and the mountains. To enjoy the touring season to the full the owner of the auto must have the machine put in the best possible condition before the warm days arrive, then it can be thoroughly broken in before the time for the mountain trip arrives. We are headquarters for all kinds of automobile repairing electrical work, etc. And all our work is guaranteed."

Spring Lures Along Roads In and Out of Glendale

Where to Go and How to Get There the Easiest Way in Your New Automobile

For the benefit of the motorists of Glendale it is the plan of the Glendale Daily Press to print a suggestion for a Sunday or week-end trip in its automobile section each Saturday. There are dozens of motorists who feel that they have seen Southern California. Possibly they have, but still there may be some little hidden canyon or sheltered nook that is well worth visiting. To the visitor to this section these weekly suggestions will probably be very welcome. The aim in presenting these trips is that the Press may be of service to its readers. It is the present plan to continue these trip suggestions throughout the entire summer.

The first trip suggestion will be down San Diego way. It will be of especial interest to the motorist angler, who is living in anticipation of the opening of the trout season. In considering this jaunt the motorist should remember that it takes about five hours to motor to San Diego, from which point it takes a greater or lesser time to reach any of the fishing points mentioned. The motorist could make the trip south on Saturday afternoon, returning to Glendale Sunday evening.

But there is absolutely no reason for the follower of Isaac Walton holding his breath until May 1, for there are "other worlds to conquer" along the angling line. There are a few lakes or reservoirs in the region of San Diego that are reputed to furnish the finest bass fishing in this section of the country. These are dams belonging to the city of San Diego, and they are called Murray, Morena and Sweetwater reservoirs. All of these reservoirs have been stocked with eastern large-mouth black bass, and there are some folks who say that the finny creatures in these "old swimmin' holes" provide as fine bass fishing as any in the world, although that may be talking in a little too much territory. There is no doubt, however, but that there is some real sport wrapped up in these lakes.

To fish in any of these lakes any time in the year the angler has only to secure a permit from the keeper in charge of the reservoirs, the charge being very small. At each of the reservoirs camp-sites are provided which are maintained by the city and are sanitary in every respect. The fishing permit includes camping privileges.

The coast road between Glendale and San Diego is in excellent shape at this time and will probably remain so during the remainder of the spring and summer. From San Diego to the various resorts the roads are all that can be desired, passing through some of the prettiest valleys and most picturesque mountains in this part of the country. From San Diego the motorist can tour to any of these lakes, do several hours fishing and return within a day's time, providing the motorist does not care to remain over night.

Sweetwater dam offers some very wonderful fishing. It is located twelve miles from the city and is reached over good roads, the big percentage of which are paved. To reach this resort the motorist should leave San Diego via Fifth street to San Diego to the motorist can tour to any of these lakes, do several hours fishing and return within a day's time, providing the motorist does not care to remain over night.

The coast road between Glendale and San Diego is in excellent shape at this time and will probably remain so during the remainder of the spring and summer. From San Diego the motorist can tour to any of these lakes, do several hours fishing and return within a day's time, providing the motorist does not care to remain over night.

The limit of bass is 25 and it is not at all unusual for an angler to secure this number inside of an hour and a half. Permits must be secured from the dealer and cost $1 per person per day, with $2 per day for boats. The camp-sites are ideal and sanitary with water piped to every camp. Any moving lure is good here but live crawfish, secured at San Diego, are especially good.

The Murray dam is the closest to San Diego and is also the smallest. To reach this dam proceed as follows: Leave San Diego on Broadway to Fourth street; take right hand turn at University avenue, which is the Imperial Valley highway. Follow same to a point nine and one-half miles from the city, then take left hand turn over a good dirt road for about two miles. Get a permit and boat from the keeper for which a charge of 50 cents a day per person and $1.50 per boat is made. A bucket fly or Lord Baltimore fishes well will always bring results, especially in the evening.

So, Mr. Angler, there is no need to sit with folded hands and pine the coming month away. Bass fishing has its thrill, just as has fishing for the wary trout, and when it comes to eating—well, there is far more to a bass than there is to a trout, and some folks say that black bass is the finest tasting fish in the world.

How to Figure Your Want Ad

Count five average words to each line. The address of the foot of your Want Ad is counted also. Each number, initial, etc., counts as one word. For example, the name, "John O. Smith," is three words; "212 W. ## FACTORY TEST OF BATTERY IS THE GUARANTEE

Psenner & Doll Tells of Examination of Philadelphia Spark Box

"The various inspections thru which the Philadelphia battery is put before it leaves the factory," said Mr. Psenner of the firm of Psenner & Doll, corner Chestnut and Brand, local agents for the Philadelphia, "assure the motorist of the finest battery it is possible to produce. The men who are in charge of the various departments in which the parts of this battery are made, are experts, and are as learned along the battery line that it is possible to find in this entire country. Every one of these men are responsible for every bit of work that leaves their department, and are given a bonus aside from their regular salary for catching work turned out by employees that is not up to the strict Philadelphia standard. Each part of the battery is tested after the inspection to further guarantee its perfectness. We believe this battery is the best on the market. That is why we handle it."

The firm of Psenner & Doll recently took possession of its new home, which was erected especially for the battery business. Everything in the establishment is right up to the minute and since taking possession of their new home the boys have installed all of the latest machines that is used along the battery line. In fact, everything is right up to the minute.

J. AND K. GARAGE MEETS YOU COMING

Service Grab Is Always Ready for Any Part Says Jellison

"Holes and ruts in the street are something that should be avoided by the driver of the motor car," said Mr. Jellison, one of the proprietors of the J. and K. garage, 1106 South Brand boulevard, this morning. "It is very often that holes of this kind are responsible for broken springs and snapped rods. Very often these holes are left during the hours of the night unguarded by red lights."

"It is very often, however, that it is impossible for the motorist to turn out quickly enough to avoid these holes, the result being a severe jolt or a bent or broken part of the car."

"A number of cars damaged in this manner have been brought in to our service department during the past few weeks. In every instance we have been able to repair the broken part and have the motorist on the road within a couple of hours. Our repair department is equipped for efficient and speedy repairs, and everything is being done to give the motorist the very most for his money. The many regular clients we have proves that our service is such as bring "repeat" orders.

FAVORS BUSINESS EDUCATION
Constantinople, April—All Chambers of Commerce in the United States will be asked to co-operate in a campaign to educate the American public in the importance of foreign trade, in accordance with a plan set forth by the American Chamber of Commerce here at its annual meeting. Admiral Mark Bristol, the American High Commissioner to Turkey, was the chief speaker. He declared that the future prosperity of the United States depends on a broader business education.

The Barton Bedtime Stories

TWO FOLKS LOSE THEIR TEMPER

By JOHN BARTON

(Copyright, 1921, by Associated Newspapers)

Every bristle on the red dog's back stood up as straight as it possibly could when he was all screwed up inside the pickery thicket where the wild goose was standing guard over him. If it hadn't been for the thorn in his foot he'd have turned his teeth on the great gray bird—or at least he'd have tried. He felt it was insulting him.

"Me call Dr. Muskrat!" he snarled. "Me? Get him to come where you can get your wicked beaks on him? You've done quite enough when you spoil his pond." (For he could hear the rest of the flock still gagging and flapping and flouncing around in it.) "No. He heard me bark all right enough, so he's safe by this time."

"S-s-o, this pond is his?" The big bird-lap as beaked folks do when they're smiling. "We thought the ducks at the barn must have made a mistake when we couldn't find him. And who are you?"

"I'm Louie Thompson's Pal. And if you don't let me go and drive in

"I beg pardon." It was the prisoner himself who answered.

The bird was impressed. It craned its beak under the twigs and stared hard at him.

Then it shook its head. "No, you're not a cow dog at all. You're just a bird-hunter. That's how I knew you couldn't be Watch. You can't fool me. But I wish some one would tell us where he's gone."

"Just you keep plucking round me like you're doing now and you won't wonder long," snapped the angry Pal. "He'll be back for me with Tommy Peele before milking time. Then you'll wish you didn't know."

"S-shh. Who's afraid of Tommy Peele? He never carries a gun."

"Just what the Ghost Owl thought," the red dog snarled sarcastically. "But there's some snow in the shadow of the bank; it's just prime for snowballs. Wait till you get one on the beak and—"

"The Ghost Owl!" The goose stopped grinning. "You must be Watch or you wouldn't know about him. No, you're not. Oh, whoever you are I've done something wrong! I might as well take my pecking." "Honk-honk!"

"Whoosh!" A magnificent bird, still bigger than the guard, sailed out of Dr. Muskrat's willows. "I heard that dog," said he, with so grim a look Pal knew why the other hadn't wanted to call him. "I thought it was high time you reported him. Well—"

"I beg pardon." It was the prisoner himself who answered. "It's all my fault. He was too well-mannered to interrupt my talking. And the guilty guard flashed a grateful look at Pal."

NEXT STORY—THE RED DOG WASN'T A TATTLE-TALE.

SOUTH GLENDALE GARAGE BOASTS OF ITS SKILL

"Nothing but the finest work is turned out by the mechanics in our shop," said Mr. Hall, one of the proprietors of the South Glendale garage, 1416 South San Fernando road, this morning. "We have been in Glendale a long time, during which time we have been right at the same old stand. Also, we intend to stay here for some time to come. In order to continue to do a growing business all the time we must turn out good work. The reputation of a poor mechanic soon becomes known in any neighborhood, and if we do poor work it will not be long before our garage gets a 'black eye' as they say."

"Right now there isn't a garage in Glendale that stands higher in the estimation of local motor car owners than does the South Glendale garage. And we are determined to keep up this good name. This can only be done by efficient and satisfactory workmanship."

Truths in Epigram

The vocation of every man and woman is to serve other people.—Tolstoi (1828-1910).

You can never plan the future by the past.—Burke (1729-1797).

When Spring unlocks the flowers to paint the laughing soil.—Heber (1783-1826).

THE HONEST MAN

An employee of the county is lavishly praised as being an honest man. Doubtless he is an honest man. That he is entitled to more reward than that his conscience bestows does not by any means follow. Why shouldn't an employee of the county be honest? Why shouldn't all be honest in the way manifested by refusal to steal? Several times people have been heard to say that honesty is the best policy. Being the best policy, the wisdom of adopting it, regardless of bouquets thus to be won, ought to appeal to the ordinary judgment.

The employee in question had been injured under such circumstances as entitled him legally to compensation. He accepted the compensation while he needed it. After he had recovered and returned to work, he received a check to cover compensation for another month. He sent back the check. Hence all the ado. Possibly he had gumption to realize what he would be in case of failure to do exactly what he did. Nobody wants to be that. Theft, however disguised, is not a pleasing way to acquire money. This check had come to an honest man. He declined it, of course. That he is extolled as for a rare and spectacular merit probably is a surprise to him. Being honest, it is likely he thinks honesty a general rule.

Honest men are not rare. The criminals who go about killing and stealing do not represent in any part the real fiber of the social structure. They are the refuse and debris. For such one of these degenerate ruffians, there are thousands who could not be guilty of an act of violence, and who would have no more impulse to steal than to jump off a house. To them, stealing seems not only unwarrantable, but base and repellent. They go about their business day after day, and attending to it unostentatiously, seldom burst into public view. They exist just the same, and in the aggregate, they constitute the great majority.

VALUE OF A CONFESSION

Ordinarily the confession of a person accused is the expression of sincerity. When a man arrested for a crime freely admits that he is guilty, the presumption of innocence is swept aside. For it is substituted the presumption of guilt. Of course there is need of some sort of corroboration. The fact that suspicion had been aroused in advance of the confession naturally would be considered. Of course in the case of a man voluntarily surrendering, and proclaiming his guilt, there might be need of rigid investigation. Lunatics of such type are likely to turn up in connection with any great crime.

These facts come into consideration because of the trial of two men charged with the murder of two policemen. When taken to prison they not only confessed their guilt, but went into the matter in a way showing intimate knowledge of the circumstances. At this writing their lawyers are making an effort to have the confessions excluded. In other words, accused persons, admitting their guilt, are to have the privilege of escaping penalty. The confessions would stand, in the minds of most individuals, and presumably in the minds of twelve jurors, as the unequal proof of the charge. A trial is for the purpose of obtaining the truth. A trial that has any other purpose, or in which there is endeavor to keep the truth from reaching the ears of the jurors, does not strike the observer as a fine example of the processes of justice achieving a perfect work.

The man who says he has committed murder, but who can't get his word accepted, goes forth under the stigma of being a liar, and so entitled to but poor moral rating. However, he goes forth, which often is an outcome much to be deplored.

LEFT NO SUCCESSOR

"He leaves no successor" was the comment of the preacher who delivered the address at the funeral of Henry Watterson. This was a fitting tribute. The great editor left no successor. The conditions that bred his type, a strong and admirable type, passed away even before the journalist had been called. He remained for a time as a survival, last of a school that produced such outstanding figures as Horace Greeley, Charles A. Dana and ended with Henry Watterson.

There are able editors still, as able as any that acquired personal fame. They may have the mental strength, the high purpose of predecessors of the former and vanished day. The great change has been in the newspaper itself. It has expanded into an immensity never dreamed of in the early career of Watterson. It has gone beyond the point where its complete domination by any individual remains possible. It is the result of an intellectual composite. Into it must enter the ideas, and in it must appear the effects, of a group.

In a recent article a hotel keeper, writing of the changes in his calling, expressed regret that the modern hotel had become an institution, and lost its character as a home. The landlord no longer is a host. He is not seen by the guests nor known to them. Similarly has growth altered the newspaper. There still are fine newspapers and splendid hotels. They are unlike the old, for the world moves.

The memory of Watterson is recalled at this time because he has just been laid to rest at his old home, although his death occurred in Florida some three months ago. The eulogies then evoked showed the respect and esteem in which he had been held by his countrymen.

WONDERS OF ELECTRICITY

An Italian, Juan J. Tomadelli, is said to have invented a wireless electric light. This light takes its current from the air as a radio telephone picks up sound waves. The lamp, which burns in any position, is said to give out a white and brilliant glow. The product of this lamp approximates the cold light for which science long had been questing. The most astounding feature of the invention is that the light will burn for three years. As there is no way of shutting it off metal shutters have been provided to enclose the lamp.

Concerning the marvels of electricity, so far as these have been revealed, only an expert in the class with Edison, Marconi, Steinmetz and now, Tomadelli, could speak with authority. Tesla, himself truly a wizard in the same endless field of potent mysteries, is regarded as too much a dreamer; and yet the wildest dream that ever flashed across his intelligence may come true. It is seldom, however, that men of the caliber of those mentioned are willing to pause in their activities to explain what these activities are. They prefer to let results show forth the truth.

If the new lamp should prove to be all that is claimed for it, a revolution in methods of lighting may be predicted with reasonable safety. When a detached lamp of 100 candlepower burns three years constantly at a cost of $1 per year, the problem of putting wires under ground will be lessened through the absence of some of the wires.

NEW PARTY TALK

There is talk about the need of a new political party. It may be that the two parties of the major political league have served their respective purposes, and are about to abandon the field. There have been many crises that have caused similar speculation. Occasionally the new party has appeared, gone to the plate, taken a swing at the ball, and been retired without a hit. Others have remained in the game long enough to win a short series.

No man could well be so strong a partisan as to point with pride to the general achievements of the present congress in which the republicans have a majority, and the democrats an influential minority. It would be difficult for any student of political affairs to draw a line of demarcation between the purposes of the two organizations. Together they putter along, somewhat to the neglect of essential legislation, but seldom forgetting to forward to the constituent a package of seeds. The constituent appreciates the honor and throws away the seed.

There certainly are elements in congress that do not represent any party. The republican administration decried greatly the ratification of solemn treaty agreements. The showing was plain that such ratification was vital. The matter was so important that it won the support of many democrats. Yet there were republicans, so called, who opposed the ratification with intense bitterness. In doing this they stepped out of the party, but they did not step into the opposite camp. They stand lone and desolate in the midst of No Man's Land. They are between two fires.

Possibly it is from these exiles the talk of a new party arises. If they still desire a party it is certain that they will have to create it.

No woman would wear eyeglasses if they didn't improve her looks.

To whom you tell your secret you sell your freedom.

ABSURD IDEALISM

By DR. FRANK CRANE

News from Manchester, Ky., some time ago announced that members of the Benge-Martin feud sections, seventy-five of whom made peace and shook hands in the circuit court room, have returned to their homes and for the first time in more than a year residents from the Little Goose Creek section are able to travel the mountain roads without fear of being shot from ambush.

This peace came at the close of a four-day hearing on peace bonds, more than one hundred of the clansmen being in court, while fifty militia men surrounded the court house. Judge Johnson, after placing forty-six under bonds, urged them to "act like men and shake hands."

This feud followed the slaying of Wood Benge by Steve Martin, after the men had quarrelled over a shotgun stolen from the former and sold to the latter. Six men were killed, fifteen persons, including two children were shot, and more than fifty homes were desolated. On Christmas day three men were shot to death in a battle in which a dozen participated.

While we sympathize with the good intentions of Judge Johnson, we must condemn his absurd idealism. We have been reading up the convincing words of many newspaper editors, statesmen and near-statesmen upon the subject of war.

And we wish to remind the judge, upon no less authority than President Harding himself, that war is human nature. It cannot be stopped. Men have always fought and always will fight.

The same logic which declares that France must go on manufacturing submarines and America must never let up building dreadnaughts, and that the only safety consists in military preparedness also holds good in Little Goose Creek.

The idea that a Benge or a Martin should start to town in a spring wagon without a loaded rifle is entirely impracticable. It may do in the millennium but will not hold good now.

Just how Judge Johnson imagines that red blooded Kentuckians will consent to give up their guns and settle their disputes in court when almost the entire public press is howling out the argument that it is absolutely impossible to establish any kind of a league that will make nations give up their guns and settle their disputes in court it is difficult to say.

Perhaps the judge has an idea that morality, law and common sense should be applied to nations as well as individuals. But if he has any such notion he is not aware of the fact of the profound hypocrisy of our civilization, which, while it professes to be Christian in its principles, still follows the ideas of Machiavelli in its practices.

REMORSE

Remorse was sitting by a grave.
Looking ever backward.
Where were lost days and wasted opportunities and withered flowers.
She was idle.
Except for her reflections.

Reflection is fine when it is the preliminary to action.
But of little use merely as reflection.
It is likely to become ultra-introspection.
Which is largely what morbidity is.
Ingrowing thought.

Too much ingrowing thought is painful.
We need in this world outgrowing thought.
A flower that budded and blossomed under ground would add little to the beauty of the world.
Just as inactive good adds little to the wealth or value in the world.

All virtues need to be positive.
There is little if any virtue in negation.
The philosophy of the builders of thought, religion, service, progress in the world has been compassed largely in the word DO.
Not in the word DONT.

There are many DONTs that we need to heed.
But they are merely means to DOING.
We DONT in a great many particulars in order that we may do better in our lives.
Thus we don't abuse body and spirit.
In order that body and spirit may serve the world better.

Morals are not ends in themselves.
But they are means to the end of high endeavor and useful life.
A man might go out on a hilltop and be so moral his life was irreproachable.
And yet be useless in the world.

So with Remorse.
She was idle, morbid and filled with unhappy reflections.
And she looked ever backward.
With many sighs and tears.

None of which served any good purpose.
Unless they inspired her to better deeds and new purposes.

And as Remorse sat there brooding another figure approached.
With bright eyes and quick steps and alert manner.
And she took Remorse by the hand.
And bade her arise from her place by the side of the grave.

And she led the way from the place of gloom and sorrow.
Turned her back upon the past.
And strode forward toward the future.
Always looking ahead.
Never behind.

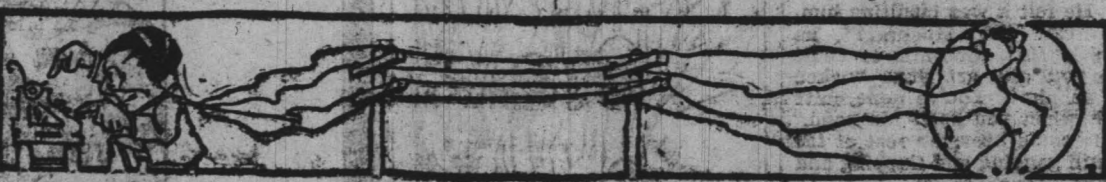

And they came to the valley of blooming flowers.
The withered ones were no longer to be seen.
And they walked away from the leafless forest of dead hopes.
And they looked toward the future of new opportunities.

The day grew brighter.
The sun shone with a more radiant light.
They were walking continually out of the shadow.
And toward the sunlight.
And the day grew warm.
The whole earth took on beauty.

And Remorse smiled again.
Stepped with a quicker step.
Felt the glow of renewed hope.
And still the other radiant figure walked at her side.

"Who are you?" asked Remorse.
"I am Resolve," said the other.
"Whence come you?" asked Remorse.
"I am the happy child of Regret and Failure," said the other. "I am Resolve."

SONGS OF THE POETS

The Building of the Nest—Margaret Sangster (1838-1912)

They'll come again to the apple tree—
Robin and all the rest—
When the orchard branches are fair to see,
In the snow of blossoms dressed;
And the prettiest thing in the world will be
The building of the nest.

Weaving it well, so round and trim,
Following it with care—
Nothing too far away from him,
Nothing for her too fair—
Hanging it safe on the topmost limb,
There castle in the air.

Ah! mother bird, you'll have weary days
When the eggs are under your breast,
And shadow may darken the dancing rays
When the wee ones leave the nest
But they'll find their wings in the glad amaze,
And God will see to the rest.

So come to the trees with all your train
When the apple blossoms blow;
Through the April shimmer of sun and rain,
Go flying to and fro;
And sing to our hearts as we watch again
Your fairy building grow.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

"REPUDEATE THE BONDS"
(Letter to the New York Times)

I understand that within the next few years the treasury of the United States will be called upon by a more or less noisy minority to redeem a few billion dollars worth of Liberty bonds. It is high time that those of us who have a real interest in the welfare of our country organize ourselves and use all available weapons against such a payment by the treasury.

Such a "raid" would unquestionably have a depressing effect on "business." Reconstruction will be delayed. The bondholders will present an orgy of spending such as has never been witnessed before. It will result in "the greatest trap-game in history."

The people must be led to see that the past "patriotism" of the bondholders should not be rewarded by any payment of money. Their honor should demand that they ought to suppress any desire of economic advantage although the purchase of the bonds may have caused them a small amount of self-denial.

It may be further suggested that in this organization every one should be taken to avoid bringing to consciousness a certain rather numerous class, now happily submerged. I refer to those who saw service in the late war. The value of this group is formidable. However, it will not command the attention that will be accorded to the bondholding group, because the mere investment of money requires sacrifices that tower far above any that are made by a citizen when he enters the military service of his country.

Let us be prepared, then, against any demands that these groups may make. I have met those of the soldiers in the past. We must make ready for those of the bondholders in the future.

Let us have for a slogan, "Repudiate the bonds."

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA STEWART

It's terribly hard for most of us to admit that we have been in the wrong—or at least mistaken. That has always been one of the greatest causes of wars—civil, racial, religious. The unreasonable, stubborn belief that self is all right and the other fellow all wrong, exalted to the nth degree, has split families, disrupted churches, broken down kingdoms. It is one of the most strongly fortified human characteristics.

Not long ago there occurred a debate that seemed to show that at least there was some fleeting desire to admit the willingness to be convicted of fault on either side. The church and the theater publicly debated their differing beliefs on a subject of interest to many thousands today.

Can the theater be right?
Can the church be wrong?
Is there some middle ground where each can stand without injury of principle, working together for the common good of all?

Just as long as either side assumes that the other has nothing reasonable to commend it, just as long as there are covert sneers or open condemnation, just so long will nothing of good be accomplished. A thing is not necessarily so because we have been brought up to believe that it is, because our families have thus believed, or our friends are its advocates.

Education is ours for the purpose of inducing individual thought. It's both lazy and undeveloping of mentality to let others do our thinking for us and blindly accept their decisions.

Let's listen, learn all that we can, and then think for ourselves.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

There is reason to fear that musical enthusiasts are not always practical. The beauty, and the beneficent effect of good music are not to be denied. Nevertheless the New Yorker who suggests throwing a barrier for the wave of crime to dash against harmlessly, appears to overestimate the efficacy of tonal harmony. He wants to put a piano in the house of every burglar in New York.

Were this to be done, and the burglar to stay in to play it, or to listen to the four-finger exercises of his golden-haired tot, there might be an appreciable moral uplift. But almost insuperable difficulties present themselves.

Consider first that were the abiding places of the jimmy experts known, the natural course would be to place a pair of handcuffs in each, withdrawing them quickly with a burglar attached.

There is reason also to fear that a large proportion of the burglar fraternity are without homes in the ordinary sense of the word. The dives where they are wont to foregather are barren of all hint of domesticity. The average burglar, besides having no home, lacks the requisite touch for playing the piano. He has a well cultivated touch, but it is expressed in less tranquil ways.

Many a burglar feels that the prison is his home. When he is outside he is having a vacation.

But suppose that the burglar does have a home with an album on the center table, and a latent desire to reform; suppose that a piano be unloaded at his front door and eased into the parlor; then suppose that some member of the family were to begin hammering out jazz, where would that burglar be? Prying open the windows of the rich, less in hope of booty than of being sent back to the peace of the jail.

A young woman who had attended a five-day drunken rout such as sometimes is called a party, awoke to find that she had married another of the guests. Neither appeared to have clear recollection of the happy event. While arrangements are being made to annul the marriage, unhappily nothing is being said as to sending the principals to retreats for half-wits.

The bride issues a scream of warning to other girls not to get carried away by a sudden gust of hot air from a drunken wooer, but naturally nothing will be accomplished by this. The girl who participates in a drunken orgy is not susceptible to counsel.

By the way, it would be interesting to know what the magistrate who united this inebriate twain thinks of himself, and why he is permitted to be a magistrate.

A girl caused the arrest of a man for attempting to flirt with her. Then she refused to prosecute him in court, but led him thence to the marriage license bureau.

The general opinion will be that the fellow's punishment was too severe.

A wife is quoted as having written to her husband, "I shall indulge in tempers whenever I like, and in all the emotions whose suppression ruins my voice."

But sometimes the squawk of anger takes all the gold from a golden note. Hence the diva's occasional night off.

But, reverting to the writer of the letter, she must be a comfort and joy in the home.

Socialists in Wisconsin are losing at the polls. The people of that state are to be congratulated.

Many not socialists themselves had a sort of respect for the party until the showing that it was impossible to be a member of the organization and at the same time a loyal citizen.

Bank robbery is getting to be very simple. The robbers merely walk in, take all the money in sight and walk out. Even the professional formality of masking is omitted now.

Once outside, the robbers step into their automobile and drive away. Or if they have no automobile, they request the use of the first that happens along, ride as far as they desire, and with this the incident is closed. No fuss, no rough house.

There are indications that the public is getting impatient, however. Soon or late there will be fewer roses in the path of the bank robber, and some indignant citizen may even venture to be rude to him.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Wasn't it some ancient prophet or soothsayer or something who told the wives of this world when their husbands came around they should stop, look and listen? Or something like that? Because I've just heard a story which makes me think the ancient prophet knew his prophetic business.

"If we do not keep the women in subjection we are lost," said the man who told the story.

The two concerned are old friends of mine. For years the husband was a big, robust, high-tempered, high-spirited, high-colored go-getter of a man. Every now and then he had a fuss with his boss of the day. Then he resigned amid a cloud of smoke shot through with red fire.

"No man can talk to me that way," he used to say.

His job didn't last long enough to permit him to pile up much of a bank account, and in the interim the wife had to go to work. Mind you, the husband wasn't a genteel tramp. He worked hard when he had a job and he had as many jobs as he could find. But his temperamental defects made it difficult for him to catch on when he was out and the burden of the establishment fell on the tender shoulders of the wife. She had a little specialty, though no one thought much of it or valued her highly. She was such a tender, home-loving, dainty, retiring little woman.

"Do you know what they're doing now?" my friend asked. "She has sprung that specialty of hers into a big business. Her name is all over the world. It is her name that is in the city directory and the telephone book. She is a success. So is he, for that matter. He has toned down that temper until people have forgotten that he ever had it. He is kindly, gentle, thoughtful—all those things that he didn't use to be. There isn't a swager in a ten-mile walk with him. He is as successful in his profession as his best friends ever hoped he would be, but he is utterly submerged by his wife. He has ceased to be in the eyes of the world that know the two of them. She has taken over those qualities he has lost. She is brusque, up-stage, domineering. People used to speak of her as:

"That sweet little Mrs. Blicker." Now they say:

"Head's swelled, huh?"

I do not know what the moral is, unless the ancient prophet previously quoted saw it first. But before you can keep a wife in her place it is up to you to provide the right sort of a place.

ROLAND SQUARE TO BE PLACED ON THE MARKET

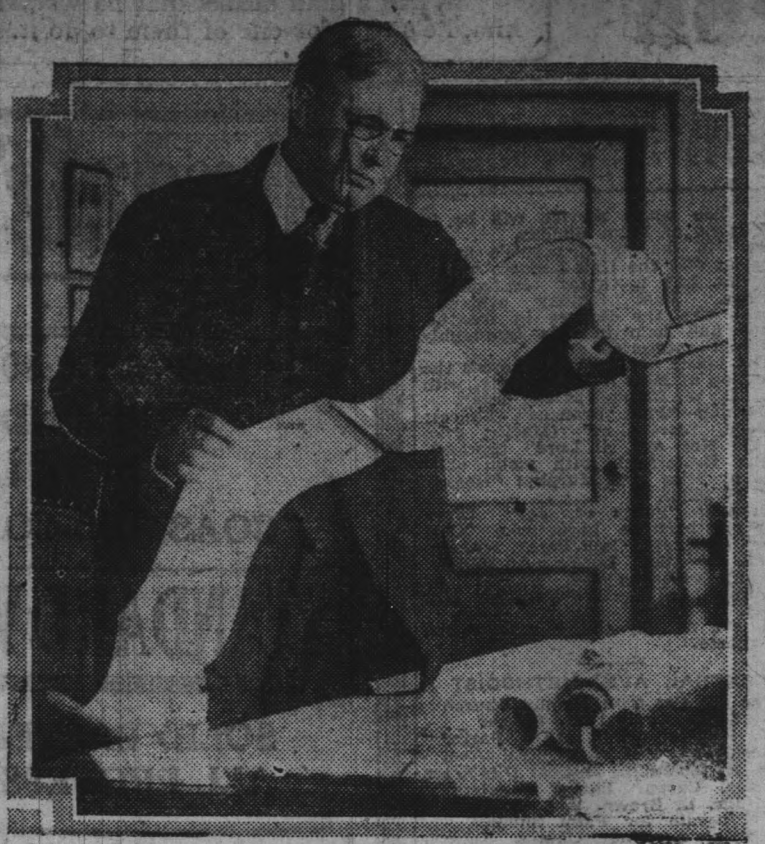

Roland Square, the new J. Harvey McCarthy residential subdivision, is to be thrown open to the public tomorrow (Sunday) according to announcements made today. This will be the second home development promoted by this well known and long established Los Angeles realty firm in Glendale since the first of the year. The first, Eagle Glen Heights, on East Broadway, is practically sold out, Mr. McCarthy says.

The new tract is situated between Doran street and Patterson avenue, with its other boundaries marked by Chester street and Kenilworth avenue. It is part of the well-known Grey tract, and has long been considered by Glendale real estate operators as one of the choicest pieces of subdivision land yet undeveloped. It is said to be the last of the close-in acreages suitable for home-sites.

It is the design of Mr. McCarthy, he states, to make Roland Square a worthy successor to the 26 other residential tracts he has promoted, and to include in the improvements installed everything possible for the comfort and convenience of his clients. The streets are to be wide and constructed with a fine, permanent surface. Curbs, paved sidewalks, gas, water and electricity will all be included. And, along the streets, beautiful shade trees are to be planted.

A unique offer by Mr. McCarthy is to install, free of charge, and in full working order, a fine, up-to-date, latest type radio set, in the first erected and completed home in Roland Square. The installation is to be made by the well known Western Radio Electric company, whose instruments are declared to be among the best made. Roland Square will have the distinction of being the first sub-division in America to be so equipped, it is believed. The new tract adjoins the Glendale Place development which Mr. McCarthy promoted some 15 years ago, and which is now one of the best types of small home sections in Southern California. Situated as it is with one frontage on Doran street, one of the city's two main outlets to the San Fernando Valley, and on the opposite side, on Patterson avenue—across from the

D. C. STEVENS GETS CONTRACT FOR BIG BUILDING

D. C. Stevens, contractor and builder, 219½ East Broadway, has been awarded the contract for a 2-story building on the east side of North Brand between Wilson and California, and expects to start work at once. J. T. Stewart is the owner.

The building will be a 2-story brick structure, 50x100. The entire lower floor will be occupied by the C. & S. Cafeteria, while the second story will be used for apartments. Mr. Stevens expects to complete the building in about 90 days. He is one of the reliable and dependable contractors of the city, and has been a very busy contractor for several months.

When completed the C. & S. Cafeteria, which is now located at 110 North Brand, will take possession, and will make improvements in its service which will place this popular cafeteria in a class with the big city cafeterias. Mr. Stewart, the owner of the C. & S. Cafeteria, assisted by Mrs. Louise A. Stocker, has made a wonderful success of the business in its present quarters, and feels that Glendale is entitled to the best it is possible to give in this line.

One of the new tract's attractions will be the unusually beautiful stretch of mountain and valley that it commands. Locally this view is known as the "Million-dollar view."

Another asset will be its proximity to Patterson park, upon which the city of Glendale intends, it is understood, to spend considerable sums in the near future. Lots at Roland Square, Mr. McCarthy says, have been priced very low and are actually less than have recently been paid in the same neighborhood, only further out, for unimproved property.

Austin and Russell, presenting their character studies and comedy chatter will be another bright spot on this bill. Manning and Ball, in a musical cycle of character comedy songs and Perrell, the well-known shadowgraphist, will add materially to the quality of this bill. Zellner and Halloway, round out this bill with an offering that abounds with novelty and speed.

TUJUNGA CHILDREN OFFERED TICKET SALES PRIZE

American Legion, Record to Reward Efforts for Legion Show

TUJUNGA, April 8.—To promote ticket sales for its vodvil show to be given on April 21 and 22 the American Legion is offering a prize of $2.50 each to the boy and the girl selling the greatest number of tickets. The Verdugo Hills record is offering a prize of 10 tickets to be given to the five highest boys and the five highest girls.

The Legion plans to make this show a super production, and as a special feature plans to have a radio concert, the first public demonstration of its kind to be given in Tujunga.

Plans to Enlarge Cannery The Sunland cannery, under the management of A. Adams, Jr., may be enlarged to practically double its present size if present plans are carried out. It is proposed to add additional storage space as well as accommodations for more machinery. The plant is probably the largest industry and employer of labor in the valley. Olives, peaches, tomatoes and apricots are packed and sent out carrying the Sunland trade mark. Tujunga people are interested in its progress and regard the present plans with much interest.

Club Charter Received A charter for the Tujunga Women's club has been received. This makes the local organization a practical business concern and it expects to carry out many of its proposed activities in the near future.

Auxiliary Food Sale The Auxiliary of the American Legion post held a food sale today from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. These sales are for the benefit of the local post and delicious food is prepared.

Wells' Go East Mr. Addison C. Wells, one of the directors of the Tujunga Valley bank, and Mrs. Wells, left this week for their home at Oak Park, near Chicago. They expect to return in about a year.

RAILROADS LOSE MONEY Brussels April.—Belgium's nationalized railways are costing the country 1,000,000 francs a day, despite increased freight and passenger rates. To offset the deficit, the government plans to "industrialize" the roads, which will have to increase rates if a loss is shown.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

THE GOOD OLD WORLD

"It's a wonderful world!" said my friend Homer Pry

With a wave of his hand and a flash of his eye, And a voice that was friendly and cheery and clear, And a good-natured greeting it thrilled you to hear, With a clasp of the hand and the wealth of his smile:

"It's a wonderful world and it's run quite a while And the longer I live and the more that I see The surer I am it could run without me!"

"Once a long time ago, when I worried a lot, I wasn't so sure if it would run or not If I took myself out or if things should go wrong With the plans that I made as I traveled along.

But I've noticed, no matter who comes or who goes, The seasons come 'round and the tide ebbs and flows, And the mountain stands fast, and the land and the sea Still abide, and the world would revolve without me."

"It's a wonderful world, and this much I have found To be true in my life, it keeps going around, Whatever we poor little mortals may do, Its axis stays firm and its orbit is true.

In my youth and my pride I have thought it would tilt, If I didn't stand firm, and the ocean be spilt, But the longer I live here, the clearer I see That it could, at a pinch, get along without me."

'SONG OF LIFE' AND RIALTO STOCK CO. VAUDEVILLE AT T. D. & L. CLOSING SEASON TONIGHT

Gloria Swanson at the Playhouse on Sunday. "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Is Offering of Tent Theatre

A great combination show is being presented at the T. D. & L. tonight. This combination is the feature picture, "The Song of Life," the John Stahl production featuring Georgia Woodthorpe, the Glendale actress, famous over the width and breadth of the land for her screen-mother character portrayals; and the road show of five lively acts of music, novelty, dancing, and singing. The entire bill is extra good and with the feature "Song of Life," you really get abundant measure. This program will be given for the last time today. Miss Georgia Woodthorpe will attend the performance at the T. D. & L. theatre this evening.

GLORIA SWANSON, SUNDAY Gloria Swanson has fully established the claim to being one of the best dressed women on the screen, and at the T. D. & L. theatre, beginning tomorrow, Sunday, she has to offer fuller and more conclusive proof, for she is playing the title role of a picture, which has as its central theme, the beautiful dressing of a beautiful woman. This picture is "Her Husband's Trademark," a Paramount production, and its theme is founded on the strange creed of a man, who believed that a show of wealth would attract wealth, and believing thus, gowned his wife in a most extravagant fashion. But he built his creed on a false assumption and his plans came tumbling down with such completeness that they resulted in his death. It all makes a strangely unusual story, forceful, dramatic, tense. As an example of the lavish dressing of one woman, if ever, been equalled and Gloria Swanson is surely a perfect wearer of gowns in addition to her undoubted ability as an actress.

The man is of good stuff who can be licked in a fair fight and still not complain. When a man falls, if one woman is not at the bottom of it, several are.
